What does CCA do for you?

GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATION

In both Denver and in Washington, D.C., CCA tracks the legislation which will impact your bottom line. CCA representatives and our full-time lobbyists are at the state Capitol every day when you can't be, watching the important issues like taxes, property rights, and water. Check-off dollars cannot be utilized for this type of work, so your CCA membership dollars are crucial!

A SPOKESPERSON FOR COLORADO'S BEEF INDUSTRY.

CCA tells consumers, media and thought leaders your side of the story on issues like animal welfare, beef safety, and environmental management.

AN INFORMATION SOURCE FOR YOUR BUSINESS.

Our quarterly Cattle Guard publication, weekly News Breakdown e-mails, and semi-monthly CCA updates in the Ag Journal provide information for and about Colorado beef producers. Business meetings in June and January allow you to share ideas with other cattlemen and women, and learn about the latest innovations in beef production.

Since 1867, CCA has been a grassroots organization.

As a member, YOU set the association's policy. You can present policy resolutions through either your local or breed association or one of CCA's steering Committees (see back). As a member, you also have the final say, through voting, on the passage of ALL association policy.

CCA Events & Calendar

MID-WINTER CONFERENCE - JANUARY

Each January, CCA's members gather to gain knowledge about their industry, create policy that drives their trade association, and present awards to those who have served the state's beef industry in an exemplary fashion.

ANNUAL CONVENTION - JUNE

Every June, CCA members meet on either the East or West slope of Colorado for a week full of education, networking, committee meetings, and a lot of fun! Be on the lookout for details to come about next years convention!

CATTLEMEN'S DAY AT THE STATE FAIR - AUGUST

All of CCA's steering committees will meet to review outcomes of the Colorado Legislative session and define priority issues for the coming year. Member participation is the foundation of CCA's policy development process and all committee members are strongly encouraged to attend and take part in this important process.

RANCH GATHERINGS - YEAR-ROUND!

In an effort to get more connected to CCA membership in their local communities, CCA will host ranch gatherings at different locations around the state to connect with those current and potential CCA members unable to attend state events. First and foremost, this is an educational and recruitment event for the Colorado Cattlemen's Association.
